

Earthworm Society of Britain Membership Form

Welcome to the Earthworm Society of Britain.

You are a few steps away from joining and supporting the one and only society of its kind in the UK and indeed world! With your support we can, amongst other things, increase public awareness of these essential, incredible creatures and carry out research into earthworm distributions across the UK.

"It may be doubted whether there are many other animals which have played so important a part in the history of the world". Charles Darwin was a big fan of earthworms too!

Thank you for your support,

The Earthworm Society of Britain
